Dear Colleagues,

Time is over 1 year after the 1st URMPM World Congress in Japan, and we are announcing the URMPM Special International Conference in Latin America during August 25-27, 2004 in San Jose, Costa Rica. The purpose of this international conference is to promote safety sciences in medicine in Latin world and the others.

As shown in the present draft of the above program, the Conference consists of different nations from Costa Rica, Brazil, Chile, Ghana, Republic of Dominican, USA, Canada, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, Iran, South Africa, Tunisia, Switzerland, Russia, Ukraine, Croatia, Slovakia and other countries, to elucidate the scientific decision processes toward better risk management strategy and find better understanding of safety and health issues in Latin America, specially focused on environmental health risk management, drug abuse protection, infectious diseases, medical safety and food safety.

The URMPM expresses the greatest appreciations to our Costa Rican colleagues to give the nice opportunity to extend our global network in new medical science, covering Latin America. Let's promote 'safety in medicine' by present scientific presentations on the most beautiful and peaceful country around the world.

Sincerely,
June 1, 2004.

URMPM Chair, Ryoji Sakai
